BIG MONEY FOR A BIBLE, The Oldest Printed Copy Sold to a

Wealthy Chicago Man. The first Bible printed by Gutenberg -at any rate one of the first set-is still in tolerable preservation. Chicago has it, and it cost the buyer, James W. Ellsworth, $14,-800. In these three statements is the germ of a whole volume of curious lore. At first view it seems incredible that printing should have been invented but 440 years ago, or there-JAMES W. ELLSWORTH. abouts, yet this book is one of the very first of the set printed at Mentz by Gutenberg in 1450-5. It is in Latin, printed with Gothic type.,

with the prologue by St. Jerome,
The history of the invention of printing is not so clear as one might wish. Such as it is one may find it in any work devoted to such subjects, but one fact of interest is that many of the earliest books were very well printed. This book, with many other rare and ancient works, was disposed of at the recent sale of the great Brayton Ives collection in New York, and Chicago literary circles were almost as much excited over it as over the World's fair. At the first day's sale 216 books and manuscripts sold for nearly $40,000, the great prize being this Gutenberg Bible. It is in two parts, only seventeen of the original leaves are lacking and these are supplied in facsimiles.

Of course it cannot be proved to a cer-tainty that this was the first book ever printed, but it was among the first. The only other Gutenberg Bible is in the Lenox library at New York. Next to this Bible the sharpest contest was for the letters of Christopher Columbus, and the largest of these sold for $4,300. Car-tier's "New France" sold for $1,000. An original of John Eliot's Indian Bible sold for $1,650. This volume is very richly bound, and the longest word in it is Wutteppesittakqussunnoowehtunkuqoh, meaning "kneeling down to him." Another book attributed to Gutenberg, and the fourth book printed with a date, sold for $1,700. Book fanciers estimated that the loss of the seventeen pages depreciated the Bible sold to Mr. Ellsworth at least 40 per cent. With them it would have been worth $20,000. The Eagle Was Old and Tough. An industrious negro of East Nashville, Tenn., has got into trouble. He sold fowls for a living, and recently agreed to supply a customer with a tur-key. As that night the turkeys roosted high and the hen coops were locked, he went home empty handed but not discouraged. He owned an old gray eagle, which he had received from his former master at the close of the war, and which was known to be at least forty years of age. He slew and dressed the bird of freedom and filled his contract. The purchaser first found the tough and then learned the other facts. Hence Sambo's arrest.

A Girl's Rapid Change of Names. At Springfield, O., the other day within twelve hours a young woman wore three distinct family names. In the morning she was Lizzie Ryder, sweet sixteen, and deeply in love with Barton Tavener. Being under age and having no parent or guardian to give consent to the marriage, the girl was adopted in the afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, with whom she had lived from babyhood, and her name was changed to Osborn. In the evening she became Mrs.

The New President of Sorosis. Dr. Jennie Lozier's stature is rather below the medium height, and she has a well rounded figure. Her face is oval, and tinted with health in lips and cheeks. A pair of frank blue eyes, which have a trick of dancing with fun sometimes, flash out beneath a quantity of hair that time has powdered to a most becoming shade of whiteness. Her man-ner is full of a kindly cordiality which is palpably unaffected, and is most win

In Favor with the Kalser. When an emperor who is very nearly an autocrat slaps a subject on the shoul ders, greets him as "old friend," and begins a pleasantly confidential chat, the rest of the courtiers who are dancing attendance naturally conclude that the aforesaid "old friend" is in high is to be made the object of honors and emoluments. This is the case with Dr. Johannes Miquel, formerly a burgo-master of Frank DR. JOHANNES MIQUEL fort-on-the-Main. He has been a member of the reichstag since 1867. About a year ago Emperor William gave him the slap on the shoulder that showed excess of royal favor. Soon afterward Dr. Miquel entered the Prussian cabinet, and he now holds the place of minister of finance. It is said that he is slated to succeed Caprivi in the chancellorship, and next to the kaiser he will be the chief authority in the political manage ment of the German empire.

An Incentive to Matrimony.

A Davenport (Ia.) dry goods dealer who is a believer in matrimony recently told his female clerks that he would give bedroom sets to those who married before May 1. Within two days his prettiest employe claimed the prize. She had lost no time in bringing one of her favored admirers to terms,

The German universities have a widespread fame that attracts many wealthy and ambitious young men to their classic halls. There are at present on the lists

A preservative against rotting, decay, lungus, etc., of wood and stone Will preserve any kind of wood above or under ground or water and pro-long its life at least 100 percent. Will keep off all sorts of insects.

vermin or other enemies of wood. Will prevent rats and mice gnawing wood coated with it.

Will force all moisture out of wood without closing the pores. Will prevent shingles, coated with it, from rotting, cracking or warping. Will prevent rope treated with it from rotting, causing it to remain pliable and excelling tar coating.

Tenedos will not attack timber coated with it. Carbolineum avenarius does not contain acids or poisonous ingredients injurious to the fibres of wood.

The following is an extract from the London "Building World:" "The directors of the Palatine Railways say of Carbolineum Avenarius; "Two boards cut from one and the same piece of pine, one of which for the sake of experiment was painted with Carbolineum Avenarius, and the other left unpainted, were buried, and after a lapse of three years dug up and examined. The result was, that the wood to which the Carboline m Avenarius had been applied shewed no signs of decay, whilst the other was found to be in a rotting condition.' As a wood preservative it has no equal. For sale by
